An Irresistible VGS Voyage

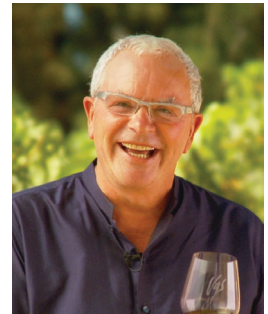

If I had not become a winemaker, I often say I would have been a historian. That love for the past is why I'm excited to invite you on a journey through a region of France that holds both history and beauty.

The beaches of Normandy, where so many gave their lives, are a sacred place. D-Day was a turning point—29,000 Americans, 12,000 French, 11,000 British, and 5,000 Canadians sacrificed everything. Even today, their courage is honored through music and art. To all who fought—thank you.

In response to many of your requests, we're offering a river cruise through this historic region, where we'll visit Giverny, home of Claude Monet, whose gardens celebrate the beauty of nature. We'll also explore Honfleur, one of France's most picturesque towns, where history and charm come together in perfect harmony.

Join us on another VGS trip of a lifetime!
